Dear parents,

After having a couple of quieter weeks at school, the next few weeks are going to be very exciting and very busy! Please take a moment to read the information below.

Family Service
If you have not already let me know whether your child is able to attend the family service on Sunday 25th March can you please do so ASAP. If your child has a speaking part in the service, this will be sent home this week to practise in preparation. We will also practise this in class.

Blog
Thank you to the people who have returned your forms regarding the class blog. When I have ‘added you’ to the blog, an email will be sent to you with your username and password. From there you will have access to the blog.

Classroom Reading
Thank you to parents who have volunteered with reading. It worked quite well on Tuesday and the children were really excited about reading to a different adult. However, Sports Day run offs have been scheduled for first thing this Thursday morning, which means unfortunately we will not be able to have classroom reading on this day.

Missing Jumper
Tomas Bond’s sports jumper was lost about a week ago and has not yet turned up. Can you please check to see that your child has the correct jumper or if you may have acquired an extra jumper that you did not have before!

Sports Day
Sports Day is approaching fast and the excitement is starting to build as we practise for the different events in our PE lessons and during fitness. This week we also begin to learn our team’s war cries! To help the day run smoothly the school does need your support. In the JP classes help is needed to take small groups of children around to the different events on the day. At the moment we need one more volunteer for our class. If you would like to help out please come and see myself or Megan Norman. If you are considering leading a group but do not feel confident to do so on your own, we are quite happy to have two parents leading a group.

I hope you have a great week. God bless,
Laura

Curriculum:

UOI
This term we have been inquiring about the importance of relationships in our lives. After exploring a variety of relationships, the children decided they wanted to further explore three types; family relationships, school relationships and friendships. Through these relationships we have been exploring how we can develop and maintain these relationships so that they are healthy relationships. We have come up with a variety of strategies that we can use to do this and are learning how to use them more often. You can find our strategies on our Inquiry wall and also in our Garden of Kindness that is displayed in the JP area. Hopefully you will see your child practicing some of these strategies at home!
